

Western Kentucky University

TopSCHOLAR®

---

WKU Archives Records

WKU Archives

---

11-1986

UA3/7/7 Scrapbook File

WKU President - Alexander

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.wku.edu/dlsc\_ua\_records

Part of the Advertising and Promotion Management Commons, African American Studies Commons, Higher Education Administration Commons, Journalism Studies Commons, Mass Communication Commons, Public Relations and Advertising Commons, Race and Ethnicity Commons, and the Social Influence and Political Communication Commons

---

Recommended Citation

WKU President - Alexander, "UA3/7/7 Scrapbook File" (1986). WKU Archives Records. Paper 7497.
https://digitalcommons.wku.edu/dlsc\_ua\_records/7497

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by TopSCHOLAR®. It has been accepted for inclusion in WKU Archives Records by an authorized administrator of TopSCHOLAR®. For more information, please contact topscholar@wku.edu.

This Week at Western

MONDAY

2 P.M. WESTERN'S PUBLIC RADIO SERVICE, WKYU/WDCL-FM, will host an open house at the radio station in the Academic Complex, room 248. For additional information call 745-5489.

* * *

5:30 P.M. WKU ALUMNI PHONOTHON begins and will continue through Nov. 20. Students plan to contact more than 35,000 alumni, seeking a pledge goal of $37,000. The fundraiser will be conducted 5:30 p.m.-9 p.m. Sunday-Thursday. For more information contact Barkley Payne, student chairman, office of development, at 745-4494.

TUESDAY

11:45 P.M. 'A LOCAL HISTORY POTPOURRI' is the theme for this fall's lunchtime learning program coordinated by Dr. Carol Crowe-Carraco, professor of history. WKU students Daniel Carey and Thomas Hines will lead the forum. For more information call the Kentucky Building at 745-2592. The forum is free and participants may bring their lunch.

* * *

8 P.M. FACULTY CONCERT SERIES continues with a trumpet recital by Gary Dilworth, assistant professor of music at Western, in the Ivan Wilson Recital Hall. The Edward Pease memorial Faculty Concert Series raises funds for WKU music student scholarships. Tickets are $3 at the door. For additional information call 745-3751.

WEDNESDAY

3:15 P.M. 'SOUTH AFRICA: A MORAL AND POLITICAL DILEMMA' will be addressed by Dr. Melvin E. Page, professor of history at Murray State University. The lecture, sponsored by Phi Alpha Theta history honorary society, will be in Cherry Hall, room 210. For additional information call 745-3841.

THURSDAY

5 P.M. 'HEPATITIS/AIDS: EPIDEMICS OF FEAR' will be addressed by Freda Embry of HCA-Greenville Hospital. The seminar will be held at Downing University Center until 8:15 p.m. For additional information call Mona Moughton at 745-3391.

FRIDAY

1 P.M. DR. GARY ANDERSON, professor at the University of Louisville, will be the guest speaker at the department of biology's graduate seminar in Thompson Complex North Wing, room 224. For additional information call 745-3696.

* * *

4 P.M. 'NOAH AND THE GREAT AUK' will be presented by the WKU Children's Theatre. The play will also be presented Saturday and Sunday at 1 and 3:30 p.m. All performances are in Gordon Wilson Hall. Admission cost is 50 cents.

* * *

6:30 P.M. MATHEMATICS SYMPOSIUM will be held in Thompson Complex Center wing today and tomorrow. The symposium concerns insights into mathematics that are suitable for classroom use. Registration begins in the TCCW lobby at 6:30 p.m. and no registration fee is required. For additional information about the symposium call the department of mathematics at 745-3651.

SATURDAY

THE WKU HONORS COMMITTEE will host 90 high school juniors from 39 high schools for WKU's Fifth Annual Leadership Conference. Participating students are all high academic achievers as well as high school leaders. For more information, contact WKU's Honors Program at 745-2081.

Baird presents historical program

Nancy D. Baird, associate professor in the Kentucky Library, gave a program at the Oct. 23-26 annual meeting of the Oral History Association aboard the Queen Mary off Long Beach, Calif. The program was titled, "The USO: A Cultural Bridge," and it used many of the interviews Baird conducted in Germany and Italy with the USO's European volunteers and employees. D. N. 11-2-54

WKU student receives Chick-fil-A scholarship

Bret Lee Mayberry, an employee of Chick-fil-A in the Greenwood Mall and a student at Western Kentucky University, recently received a $1,000 scholarship by the fast food chain.

Chick-fil-A's scholarship program has rewarded 3,000 students who have worked in a Chick-fil-A restaurant at least 20 hours a week for two years. Each winner is recommended by his Chick-fil-A operator and has passed a three-month evaluation.

Mayberry is the son of Richard Mayberry of Bowling Green and Brenda Wallace of Brighton, Ill.

(Staff Color Photos by James Morris)

WKU homecoming

THE KAPPA DELTA-SIGMA CHI entry (above) won first place in the floats division in competition among participants in the Western Kentucky University Homecoming Parade Saturday. Entries by Poland Hall-Pearce Ford Tower, Delta Sigma Chi and Interhall Council finished second, third, and fourth, respectively. Winners in the marching bands division were Allen County-Scottsville High School in the high school division, and Henderson's North and South junior high schools, which tied for first in the junior high school division. Western's marching band (below) also participated in the parade, which began around 10:30 a.m. on Center Street in front of Bowling Green Junior High School and finished about 45 minutes later in front of Smith Stadium. The winners of the "Hanging of the Red" residence hall decoration contest were Rodes-Harlin and McCormack halls, which tied for first place; McClean Hall, which finished second, and Potter Hall, which finished third.

D. N.

11-2-56

Town cooks up celebration of Duncan Hines

C-3 Associated Press 11-3-86

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. — Duncan Hines, who traveled 50,000 miles a year in search of America's finest restaurants before his death in 1959, will be honored by the restaurants and residents of his hometown this month.

"He is by far the most important person to come out of Bowling Green," said Bill Jenkins, co-chairman of the Duncan Hines Celebration.

"I'd been aware of the Hines story since I came here the year he died, and I wondered why this city hasn't capitalized on this man," Jenkins said.

The Duncan Hines story is that of a man who spent 26 years on the road as a salesman for the Wells Fargo Co. and who changed his life with a Christmas card.

That 1935 card listed the best 167 restaurants and inns that Hines had visited during his travels across the country. Hines followed that card the next year with his first book, "Adventures in Good Eating," and soon the sign "Recommended by Duncan Hines" became a sought-after symbol at restaurants and inns.

A survey taken in the 1940s by upstate New York businessman Roy H. Park revealed that Hines was better-known among American housewives than the vice president of the United States.

Park was trying to find the best possible endorsement for his new line of food products. The result was the formation of Hines-Park Foods Inc., an organization that licensed the Hines name to food manufacturers.

In 1956, Proctor & Gamble Co. acquired Hines-Park Foods, the Duncan Hines Institute and the Duncan Hines brand of cake mixes. Hines retired at the age of 78.

The celebration — next Sunday through Nov. 15 — focuses on Hines' entrepreneurial, as well as gustatorial, talents.

A coloring book stressing Hines' business acumen, developed by Western Kentucky University students, will be distributed in Warren County elementary schools. WKU students are preparing a documentary on Hines, to be shown on educational TV.

Bowling Green restaurants will commemorate Hines with menus based on his recipes, and WKU students will hold a bake-off during the week as well.

A set of the original boxes for Duncan Hines cake mix, copies of his first Christmas-card restaurant list and other memorabilia will be on display at the Bowling Green public library.

"Every section of Bowling Green will be affected by the celebration," said Peggy Keck, a WKU professor who is co-chairwoman of the organizing committee. "The celebration is important because many people don't know Hines came from Bowling Green.

"We're hoping the chamber of commerce's leadership program will make the celebration an annual event," she said. "Bowling Green should be proud of Duncan Hines."

Faculty regent race in runoff

D.N. 11-3-86

By THOMAS T. ROSS
Daily News Staff Writer

The current faculty regent at Western Kentucky University was just 14 votes shy of being re-elected outright to another three-year term during last week's regular election.

Incumbent Mary Ellen Miller, an associate professor of English, and Dr. Eugene Evans, a professor of marketing and management, will now face each other in a runoff election Nov. 13-14, according to Nancy Baird, chairperson of the Faculty Senate's By-laws, Amendments and Elections Committee.

There were five candidates running for the post. In order to win outright on the first ballot, a candidate must receive at least 50 percent of the vote in accordance to the committee's election rules.

The regular election, conducted during business hours last Thursday-Friday, brought 441 — or 76 percent — of the 577 faculty members who are eligible to vote to the polls, Mrs. Baird said.

(Mrs. Baird said eligible voters include full-time faculty members — assistant professors and above — and administrators who have faculty status. Administrators with faculty status, however, are not eligible to run for the post.)

Mrs. Miller received the most support in the regular election, garnering 208 votes or 47 percent. In order to have been declared an outright winner, Mrs. Miller would have had to receive 222 votes, Mrs. Baird said.

Evans received 114 votes or 26 percent; Dr. Richard Weigel, a professor of history, received 100 votes or 23 percent; Dr. Henry Baughman, a professor of health and safety, received 12 votes or 3 percent; and Dr. Jim Wesolowski, a professor of communication and theatre, received seven votes or 2 percent.

"I feel good about the election," said Mrs. Miller, who on her platform is pushing to improve communication throughout the campus and between the faculty and the regents.

"But at the same time I'm not going to quit working," she continued. "It was a very impressive turnout by the faculty and I just hope that the faculty isn't too tired of the whole thing to go back to the polls again."

"The hard part is now," said Evans, who is advocating on his platform that a clearer view of education be presented to the board.

"I'm really not surprised at the election's outcome," he continued. "I'm gratified and appreciative of the support I have had."

Evans, who will give up his position as chairman of the Faculty Senate if he's elected, said the board currently isn't getting an overall picture of higher education.

"We need to clarify what (the faculty's) mission is," Evans said. "We need a better sense of identity than we have now. I don't see that the board has had much of a view of education. And this is an opportunity to communicate with the board."

Evans, who teaches regulation of business and management, said board meetings of the past seem all too "pro forma" — that there's not much discussion of educational issues.

"In the two years that I've been regularly attending the meetings, educational philosophy has never been mentioned," Evans said. "I've heard a lot of commendations for athletic prowess, and lately with President (Kern) Alexander I've heard some commendations for the faculty. But that all seems minor relative to what the board thinks we should be doing."

Evans said he's not saying the board should make academic policy — that's primarily a function of the faculty — but that it still needs a frame of reference to go by.

Mrs. Miller, who chairs the board's International Studies Committee, said she wants to start a newsletter as a medium of opening lines of communication on campus.

She sums up her performance as faculty regent with two words: "Fair" and "Energetic."

"The faculty regent really has to know the whole campus," she said. "You can't just be aware of the problems of one department or one college, you have to be aware of the whole university. I think I do possess that awareness."

Mrs. Miller added a faculty regent must be a "good listener" and a "good ombudsman."

"You can't be just a good talker, you have to be a good listener," she said. "One of the other candidates said the ombudsman role is not appropriate for the faculty regent. But I don't agree. People come to you with their problems, and I think they should."

CHE list down to 14

Applications for the position of executive director of the state Council on Higher Education have been narrowed to 14 "semifinalists," according to an informed source who asked not to be identified.

The applications were pared down by the Louisville-based executive search firm Fleming Associates from the more than 100 received by the Oct. 1 deadline.

Dr. Paul Cook, executive vice president at Western Kentucky University, ended speculation that he was a candidate for the post by not submitting an application by the deadline.

Cook was considered by many in higher education circles to be a strong contender for the post shortly after Harry Snyder resigned in June to become regional vice president of CSX Corp. But Cook has said all along he's committed to Western and is not interested in leaving.

Gary Cox, acting executive director, is reportedly among the field of 14, the source said.

After Fleming interviews the 14 candidates this month, the field will be narrowed to no more than six and no fewer than three, the source said.

Fleming will tentatively present those finalists to the CHE near the end of this month. The CHE will then conduct its own series of interviews with hopes of naming the new executive director by Jan. 1.

The CHE's executive committee will present a report on the search to the full council at its statutory meeting Thursday in Louisville.

In other business, the guidelines to go by in choosing which of the state's eight public universities will be designated centers of excellence and endowed chairs should be released to the full council. No action, however, will be taken.

An ad hoc committee composed of the eight university presidents and three CHE members was charged by the Kentucky General Assembly during last winter's legislative session to establish such criteria.

Western is reportedly lobbying to be designated centers of excellence in journalism and industrial and engineering technology. D.N. 11-4-86

The COMMUNITY COLLEGE of Western Kentucky University IS NOW OPEN.

LOCATION: Room 316, Science and Technology Hall,
next to Cherry Hall.

HOURS: 12:00-8:30 p.m.,
Monday through Thursday
12:00-4:30 p.m., Friday
8:00 a.m.-12:00, Saturday

Visit our office or call
745-5371 for more information.

D.N. 11-6-86

WKU lecture scheduled

Both Western Kentucky University's Founder's Day and its 80th anniversary will be noted at the 1986 Rhodes-Helm Lecture at 8 p.m. Monday at the Garrett Conference Center Ballroom.

This year's topic will be "An evening with a scientist and a journalist," featuring Dr. Harry Gray and James Ausenbaugh.

Gray, a leading authority in the field of solar energy and a Bowling Green native, and Ausenbaugh, a journalism professor at Western, will discuss the ability, as well as commitment, of the news media to keep the public informed about advances in science.

Moderator will be Dr. Lowell Harrison, university historian and professor of history at Western, who will also speak on the founding of Western Kentucky University.

D.N. 11-6-86

Coming Attractions

D. H. 11-6-86

EDITOR'S NOTE: Individuals or groups are encouraged to submit items concerning happenings and events in Southcentral Kentucky to the Coming Attractions column, which appears every Thursday. There is no charge and items should be submitted at least two weeks in advance of the event. Deadline is noon Wednesday.

CONCERTS

The department of music at Western Kentucky University continues its Edward J. Pease Memorial Faculty Concert Series with chamber recital by Larry Long on bassoon, David Vincent on percussion and Linda Harmon on piano at 8 p.m. Nov. 18 in the recital hall of Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center. Admission is $3 at the door or $15 for entire series. Call 745-3751 for added details.

The Western Kentucky University Choir under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Davis will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church. Admission is free and the public is invited.

New Grass Revival will perform at 9 p.m. Nov. 10 at Picasso's.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The public library's "Tots and Moms Activity Time" will meet at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in the program room.

The Arts Alliance will sponsor an Art Auction at 8 p.m. Nov. 22 at the Bowling Green Country Club. Patricia Galleries of Atlanta, Ga., will be supplying the framed pictures for sale. Admission is free and those interested may view the art work before the auction. Proceeds are to benefit the Capitol Arts Center.

PRODUCTIONS

"Noah and the Great Auk" will be presented by Western's department of communication and theatre Friday and Saturday. The production is part of the 1986 Children's Theatre Series. All performances will be in Theatre 100 of Gordon Wilson Hall at Western. Admission is 50 cents and showtimes are 4 p.m. Friday and at 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Auditions for soloists for the Messiah Sing-In will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday in the recital hall of Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center. The Messiah will be performed at 8 p.m. Nov. 28 at the Capitol Arts Center and is sponsored by Citizens National Bank. Call Gary Dilworth at 745-5921 for more information.

The Capitol Arts Center and American National Bank will present a sold out performance by the national touring company of "A Chorus Line" at 8 p.m. November 15.

The Touch of Arts will present the musical revue, "Strictly Logan," on Nov. 21-22 at deGraffenried Auditorium in Russellville. Wayne Posey's music and Shelly Steele Cataxinos' choreography will be featured. Twenty-six acts are scheduled, including performances in song by the quartet made up of Jim Young, Buddy Linton, Joe Hardy and Ken Barrett. Solos will be performed by Rev. Norman Witthuhn, W.P. "Winky" Sosh and Vicki Cross. There will be a tap dancing act and a Charleston act by Dr. and Mrs. Bill Webb.

The Capitol Arts Center will present the Metro Theatre Circus' "In a room somewhere," on Nov. 19-20 for Bowling Green and Warren County schoolchildren. The production is the second show of the center's annual School-Day Performance Series.

FILMS, FILMSTRIPS AND STORIES

The public library will show children's films at 10:30 a.m. Saturday and 3:45 p.m. Tuesday in the library program room.

The public library's preschool storytime will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and Thursday in the program room.

EXHIBITS

An exhibit of more than 60 Ivan Wilson paintings is on view at the Kentucky Museum. A reception will be held Saturday honoring the late watercolorist who was a member of Western's art faculty for 39 years. (Call 745-2592 for time) John Warren Oakes, associate professor of art at Western and a student of Wilson, will be the exhibit's guest curator. The museum, located Western's campus is open 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and 1 p.m.-4:30 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Eighteen original oil paintings by Bowling Green artist Lola A. Joiner are on display at the Bowling Green Public Library through Friday.

Two photography exhibitions are on display in the University Gallery of Western's Fine Arts Center. Photographs by Bulgarian photographer Antony Georgieff and sabbatical works by John Warren Oakes are on view through Nov. 13. Gallery hours are 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Monday-Friday.

A "Canadian Quilt Collection" will go on display Tuesday at the Kentucky Museum. The collection of 13 quilts and 2 pillowcovers will be on display through January.

On view in the Ervin G. Houchens Gallery at the Capitol Arts Center is "New Works XXI" by Kelly Shay. The show will run through Nov. 28. A reception will be at 7:30 p.m.-6 p.m. Friday.

On display at the Hobson House is a Victorian baby bed for twins, circa 1860. The bed is on loan from Mrs. William Howard Green and Kenneth C. Thomson Jr.

The Kentucky Museum's Fall 1986 Lunchtime Learning Series continues at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday. David Lee will speak on "Sergeant York: an American hero" and Dr. Carol Crowe-Carraco will present "Mary Breckinridge: Saving Babies for France." Program is free and will be conducted in The Kentucky Building. Participants may bring a lunch. Call 745-2592.

(WKU Photo)

THE 1981-82 Western Kentucky University cheerleaders are shown executing a two-tier pyramid formation during a basketball game. The two-tier pyramid is the high level pyramid allowed at Western and at other Sun Belt Conference schools.

D. N.

11-7-86

Cheerleading

Recent accidents may bring some stricter restrictions

By BRIGGS ADAMS
Daily News Staff Writer

With the recent death of a college cheerleader in North Dakota and the paralysis of one in Kentucky this week, stricter restrictions on what types of stunts can be performed by the nation's cheerleaders at athletic events seem inevitable.

Pyramids built three cheerleaders high, high bounces off mini-trampolines and similar stunts are spectacular, exciting — and dangerous.

That message was driven home to the nation's colleges when UK cheerleader Dale Baldwin of Leitchfield was paralyzed from the neck down after practicing a new tumbling stunt Tuesday, and when Janis Thompson, a cheerleader at North Dakota State University, fell from a three-tier, causing her death last week.

Fortunately, most of the dangerous stunts being performed aren't allowed at Western Kentucky University and at Warren County's three high schools.

Western, as a member of the Sun Belt Conference, and Warren Central, Warren East and Bowling Green high schools, as members of KAPO (Kentucky Association of Pep Organization Sponsors), are restricted to two-tier pyramids and banned from using mini-trampolines.

"Our cheerleaders sometimes don't like our policy, but we feel it is in the best interest of

Continued Back Page
Column 5, This Section

Cheerleading

D.N.

11-7-86

From
Page 1

all concerned," said Jim Iamino, the Sun Belt's public information director.

Iamino said the policy, which has been on the books for years, has reduced the likelihood of serious injuries to cheerleaders in the conference.

Ron Beck, the former assistant dean of student affairs who supervised Western's cheerleading squad 1970-85, agreed that the Sun Belt regulations are good safety measures, but he did not rule out the possibility of danger to the conference's cheerleaders.

"No matter how much you hold the line, if you're doing anything but standing on the floor or running across the floor, you have a chance for injury," Beck said. "Partner stunts (which are allowed) are just as dangerous."

Beck said Western ruled out the three-tier pyramid, the mini-trampoline even before the Sun Belt did.

"But most importantly here, and it wasn't the most popular thing to do, we tried to keep our cheerleaders from getting into competition with themselves and with other schools," said Beck, who is now assistant director of Alumni Affairs.

"We tried to emphasize that that cheerleading is a function of building support for the team. We would stress to them 'If you don't do something that's beneficial to the team, then you're not a cheerleader ... you're a performer.'"

Beck said the recent injury and death were virtually inevitable because cheerleading squads were constantly battling to out-do their competitors.

"It's absolutely amazing to me that nationally we haven't had many more of these types of situations," Beck said. "I'm sorry that it took the tragedies at UK and in North Dakota to bring attention to this."

Denita Hines, the cheerleading director at Warren East, agreed that while competition can be dangerous, it can be useful at the high school level.

"Good competition gives them the recognition that they need," Ms. Hines said. "I wouldn't want to rule out competition. I think it's good, but it needs to be regulated."

Amy Rush, the cheerleading captain at Bowling Green High, said her team places safety as its top priority.

"We know that we need to take extra precautions with safety and spotting," Miss Rush said.

In her three years on the squad, Rush can remember only one fairly serious accident.

"We had a girl break her arm pretty bad, but most of the time it's usually a sprained ankle."

Rain total is a record

More than three inches of rain fell in Bowling Green Friday and Saturday.

The College Heights Weather Station at Western Kentucky University recorded 3.35 inches of rain between 7 a.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday, while the Bowling Green-Warren County Airport recorded 3.14 inches for a 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. Saturday.

The 3.35 inches recorded at Western is a record daily total for November, according to Jeff Cooper, a graduate assistant at the weather station. The rainfall was the most in a 24-hour period since 3.47 inches on May 7, 1984, he said.

The greatest one-day total since 1950 was 6.02 inches of rain on Sept. 13, 1979.

Rainfall for the first week of November has already passed the month's average, Cooper said. In seven days, the weather station recorded 4.9 inches; the monthly average is 3.87 inches. The record for November is 10.22 inches in 1948.

Total rainfall through October was 33.47 inches, 7.41 inches below normal. The average through November is 44.75 inches; the average for the year is 48.86 inches.

Students to show slides

Two students who traveled to Japan this summer as part of an exchange program will present a slide show of their trip at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Bowling Green-Warren County Chamber of Commerce building.

Barbara Riley, a Western Kentucky University student, and Jeff Pfohl, a junior at Bowling Green

High School, spent one month in Kokubu City as part of the sister city program.

While in Kokubu City, the students lived with Japanese families and visited high schools and junior high schools.

WKU enrollment passes 12,000 mark

Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. — Western Kentucky University's enrollment increased 8.9 percent this year, passing the 12,000 mark for the first time since 1983.

WKU President Kern Alexander said at a board of regents meeting Friday that the enrollment is 12,257, up 998 from last year. The freshman class increased 17 percent.

Also at the meeting, the regents re-elected Joe Iracane of Owensboro as chairman and elected Ronald Clark of Franklin as vice chairman.

Western's Madrigal Feast

Western Kentucky University's "A Christmas Madrigal Feast" will take place at 7 p.m. Dec. 4-7 in the Garrett Conference Center ballroom on the Bowling Green campus. The event features a traditional processional, madrigal singers and strolling minstrels. Food will be served buffet-style. Tickets are $13.50. Write Madrigal Feast, Music Department, WKU, Bowling Green, Ky. 42101.

WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

An Evening With a Scientist and a Journalist: Will feature Harry B. Gray, professor of chemistry at the California Institute of Technology, journalist James D. Ausenbaugh, and Dr. Lowell H. Harrison, university historian and professor of history at WKU, at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Garrett Ballroom on the campus in Bowling Green. Sponsored by the Rodas-Helm Founders Day Forum.

The 1986 Tax Reform Act: An independent-study personal-enrichment course sponsored by the Office of Non-Traditional Programs will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Room 436, Grise Hall. Call (502) 745-5305.

Fall Classic Horse Show: The horse show will be at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Agriculture Exposition Center's main arena.

(Staff Photo by Mark Workman)

Toughing it out

D.N.
11-9-86

THREE LOYAL Western Kentucky University football fans brave rainy conditions Saturday afternoon to watch the Hilltoppers play Boston University. The College Heights Weather Station recorded 3.35 inches of rain between 7 a.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday. (See weather story, Page 6-A.)

This Week at Western

11-9-86
D.N.

SUNDAY

11 A.M. THE WEST KENTUCKY QUARTER HORSE SALE will take place in the Agriculture Exposition Center. Approximately 190 Quarter Horses will be for sale. For additional information call Wayne and Diane Boyd at 365-7272 or the Agriculture Exposition Center at 843-3542.

3 P.M. STEVE WEBBER will hold a graduate recital in the Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center's Recital Hall. The guitar recital is free and open to the public. For additional information call 745-3751.

MONDAY

8 P.M. 'AN EVENING WITH A SCIENTIST AND A JOURNALIST,' will feature Harry B. Gray, professor of chemistry at California Institute of Technology, James D. Ausenbaugh, journalist, and WKU's Dr. Lowell H. Harrison, University historian and professor in the department of history at Western. The lecture is sponsored by the Rodes-Helm Founders Day Forum and is in Garrett Ballroom.

TUESDAY

8:30 A.M. U.S. MILK HAULER TRAINING will be held until 4:30 p.m. in the Agriculture Exposition Center double classroom and VIP room. For additional information contact E.C. Troutman at (606) 258-2785 or the Agriculture Exposition Center at 843-3542.

11:45 A.M. 'A LOCAL POTPOURRI' is the theme for this fall's lunchtime learning program coordinated by Dr. Carol Crowe-Carraco, professor of history. WKU history professors David Lee and Crowe-Carraco will lead the forum. For more information call the Kentucky Building at 745-2592. The forum is free and participants may bring their lunch.

5 P.M. 'NURSING CARE OF THE DRUG ABUSER' will be addressed by Kay Carr, associate professor in the department of nursing.

The seminar will be held in Downing University Center until 8:15 p.m. For additional information call Mona Moughton at 745-3391.

6:30 P.M. THE 1986 TAX REFORM ACT is an independent study personal enrichment course that includes coverage of the changes in the recently enacted tax law, comparison to the previous tax code, and ideas for the 1986 year and future years. Joel Philhours will instruct the class over three sessions of two hours each Nov. 11, 12 and 13 in Grise Hall, room 436. For additional information call the Office of Non-Traditional Programs at 745-5305.

7 P.M. THE SOUTH CENTRAL KENTUCKY PORK PRODUCERS ASSOCIATION will meet in the Agriculture Exposition Center's double classroom. For additional information call Dr. Gordon Jones at 745-3151 or the Agriculture Exposition Center at 843-3542.

8 P.M. THE UNIVERSITY CHOIR will perform in concert at the Presbyterian Church in Bowling Green. The concert is free and open to the public. For more information call 745-3751.

WEDNESDAY

3:20 P.M. TEACHER EDUCATION COMMITTEE MEETING will be held in the Dean's Conference Room in the College of Education Building.

THURSDAY

8 A.M. COMMUNITY GREETERS will meet in the Agriculture Exposition Center's double classroom. For additional information contact Barbara Schnoes at 843-3357.

FRIDAY

8 A.M. 'ASSESSMENT OF THE HEART' will be addressed by Billie Baughman, assistant professor, department of nursing. The seminar will be held in the Academic Complex until 2 p.m. For additional information call Mona Moughton at 745-3391.

11:45 A.M. 'HEALTH CARE IN ECUADOR' will be the topic addressed by Ms. Michelle Salisbury, department of nursing. The forum, second in a series sponsored by the office of international programs, will take place in Downing University Center, room 226.

1 P.M. DR. JOE KING, professor at Murray State University, will be the guest speaker for the department of biology's graduate seminar. For additional information call 745-3696.

SATURDAY

8:30 A.M. SOUTH CENTRAL KENTUCKY SOCIETY OF RADIOLOGIC TECHNOLOGISTS will meet in Downing University Center until 5:30 p.m.

6 P.M. FALL CLASSIC HORSE SHOW will be held in the Agriculture Exposition Center's main arena. Consists of 200 horses. For more information call 745-3151.

3 P.M. SUSAN PARKS will hold a graduate recital in the Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center's Recital Hall. The clarinet recital is free and open to the public. For additional information, call 745-3751.

Regents approve sale

11-9-86
By TOMMY NEWTON
Daily News City Editor

The issuance of $8.45 million in revenue bonds to improve and renovate campus buildings was approved Friday by Western Kentucky University's Board of Regents.

Projects to be funded by the bond sale include repairing the Diddle Arena roof, replacing air conditioning units in several campus buildings, purchasing instructional and scientific equipment and renovating a chemistry laboratory in Thompson Complex.

"We have needed for several years the financial resources for what I would call general and deferred maintenance on campus," said Harry Largen, vice president for business affairs.

The bond issue is the first for Western since 1971 when work on the Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center and the Cravens Graduate Center was funded.

As part of the 1986-88 budget, the General Assembly authorized state universities to issue bonds to construct new facilities, to improve, remodel or replace existing facilities and to purchase instructional or scientific equipment.

Western and other universities have deferred many maintenance projects because of budget cuts and because available funds have been used for salary increases and program improvements.

Bids on the bonds open at 10 a.m. Dec. 4. The board's executive committee will then meet to accept or reject bids. The university hopes to have money for the projects available before Christmas.

Architects and engineers should begin planning work this winter and next spring with some projects under way by late spring or summer, Largen said.

Projects to be funded are the chemistry laboratory renovation, $1,430,000; Diddle Arena roof work, $330,000; air conditioning unit replacements, $880,000; structural repairs at L.T. Smith Stadium, $200,000; underground steam-electrical distribution lines replacement, $800,000; life safety improvements, $500,000; coal boiler replacements, $978,000; asbestos removal, $360,000; Jones-Jaggers roof replacement, $155,000; Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center humidity control, $235,000; Downing University Center roof work, $162,000; Environmental Science and Technology Building roof work, $180,000; Helm-Cravens Library humidity control, $220,000; multipurpose building at the Agricultural Exposition Center, $190,000; instructional and scientific equipment, $900,000.

The principal and interest on the bonds will be paid for by money from student fees, Largen said. In biennial budgets, the legislature will give Western an appropriation for what it pays each year in principal and interest, he said. Depending on the interest rate when the bonds are sold, that amount could be between $700,000-$750,000 a year, Largen said.

The bonds have two maturity dates, he said. Those for $900,000 in equipment mature in 10 years, while bonds for the balance mature in 20 years.

The Louisville firm of Wyatt, Tarrant and Combs has been appointed as bond counsel by the Office for Investment and Debt Management in the Finance and Administration Cabinet. First Kentucky Securities of Frankfort has been named the financial adviser for the bond sale.

Also included in the $8.45 million bond issue are $745,000 for debt service reserve, $169,000 for 2 percent underwriter's discount and $16,000 for issuance and administrative costs.

In other action, the board:

—HEARD President Kern Alexander report that the fall enrollment is 12,257, an increase of 8.8 percent over last year. Overall freshman class enrollment is up 17 percent over 1985, while full-time freshman enrollment is up 15 percent.

Factors involved in the increase included the success of Western's men's and women's basketball teams and the intense recruiting efforts by administrators, faculty and students, Alexander said.

—RE-ELECTED Joe Iracane of Owensboro as chairman and Ronnie Clark of Franklin as vice chairman.

—HEARD John Sweeney, director of development, report that the university's phonathon raised $20,000 in its first week. The phonathon ends Nov. 20.

—APPROVED personnel changes, including the appointments of Dr. Jerry L. Kinard as head of the management and marketing department, effective May 1, 1987, to replace Dr. Robert F. Pethia, who resigned; Dr. Stephen B. Schnacke as head of the educational leadership department, effective Aug. 16; and Dr. Jerry Boles as director of the center for associate degree studies, effective Aug. 16.

—HEARD Alexander report on task forces studying topics including departmental governance, faculty recognition, enrollment management, student activity centers and campus rebeautification.

—APPROVED quarterly meeting dates for 1987. The board is scheduled to meet Jan. 29, April 30, July 30 and Oct. 29.

Problems of science discussed

D.N. 11-11-86

As science expands its frontiers, moving closer to answers to increasingly complex questions, it is moving away from the mainstream population, away from those who should share in the discoveries — and who have every right to, since they pay the bills of science.

That was the message delivered here Monday by Bowling Green native Harry Gray, a California-based scientist who is a leader in the research into solar energy.

In an afternoon press conference and an evening presentation on the Western Kentucky University campus, Gray said the problem is the chasm between scientists and journalists, those charged with the responsibility of keeping the world informed of scientific advances and breakthroughs.

Gray said a big part of that chasm is that many scientists do not or cannot describe their work in terms that are understandable to non-scientists.

In fact, Gray said, many reports on scientific research and advances are gibberish to anyone not trained and working in the field in question, even other scientists.

Another part of the problem is peer pressure, he said, explaining that scientists often feel that their work is distorted in news reports, and that distortion, regardless of the cause, causes the scientists involved to lose status in the scientific community.

Further, those scientists who make a deliberate effort, go out of their way, to spread the word of science are subject to even more disdain, Gray said, citing Carl Sagan as an example.

Sagan is a scientist who has written several understandable books on scientific subjects and hosted a Public Broadcasting System television series based on one of them.

(Staff Photo by Mark Workman)

HARRY GRAY (right), a Cal Tech scientist leading research into solar energy, talks to reporters at a press conference Monday at Western Kentucky University. Gray, a Bowling Green native and 1957 WKU graduate, and James Ausenbaugh (left), a WKU journalism teacher, discussed the need for improvement in the news reporting of science stories.

Gray said Sagan, who has been labeled a "pop" scientist by some critics, is now scorned by many of his colleagues.

Joining Gray at both the press conference and the evening presentation at Garrett Conference Center was James Ausenbaugh, a WKU journalism teacher and former long-time newspaper editor.

Ausenbaugh said another part of the problem is that news organizations do not make enough of an effort to report science stories, primarily because they are "low on the priority list" of the types of stories that are covered.

Ausenbaugh estimated that only a handful of the nation's largest newspapers have science reporters.

The two offered no solutions but agreed that there is a pressing need for better reporting and general understanding of science.

When asked why they think it matters whether people know what's going on, Gray answered that public opinion plays a large role in decisions by governmental leaders on how much public money should be spent on scientific research and which areas should be supported more than others.

People should know more about what is going on in order to form better-educated opinions, Gray said, adding that increasing the overall knowledge of the general population is a worthwhile goal as well.

Gray, 50, graduated from Western Kentucky University in 1957 and is now a professor of chemistry at the California Institute of Technology, where he conducts his solar-energy research.

He was recently awarded the National Medal of Science and Technology by President Reagan.

(Staff Photo by Kim Swift)

Ivan Wilson's prints exhibited

SENIOR TIM HOLSEN examines the collection of Ivan Wilson's work currently on exhibit at the Kentucky Museum. Wilson came to Western Kentucky University as a student in 1911, where he later taught drawing and penmanship. When the Fine Arts Center was named after him, he said "I could not have done it without Mrs. Wilson."

D.N. 11-11-86

Procter & Gamble
and the Family of Food
Duncan Hines Products are proud to support

DUNCAN HINES

ter & Gamble

the Family of Fine
an Hines Products proud to support...

N HINES WEEK

" by Mayor Charles Hardcastle. Shown above information signing are standing left to right:

Peggy Keck, Jim Hudson, Don Horn, Gerri
Horn and Margaret Garriss. Seated: Judge Executive Mayor Charles Hardcastle.

WEEK OF EVENTS

November 9th - 3:00 PM - 5:30 PM
at the Chamber of Commerce

November 10 thru Saturday,
November 16:

Bowling Green Public Library
Western Kentucky Library and Museum

Documentary on Duncan Hines
at Western Kentucky University will be shown Monday, November
10 at noon and 6:00 p.m. on K.E.T.

Book on the life and achievements of Duncan Hines will be distributed to third graders. This book was prepared by students in Free Enterprise
at Western Kentucky University and participating restaurants will offer special menus during the week.

DISPLAYS OF THESE PRODUCTS AT FAVORITE FOOD STORE.

D.N. 11-9-86

"Duncan Hines Week" by Mayor Charles Hardcastle attending the Proclamation signing are standing left to right: Dr. Bill Jenkins, Dr. Peggy Keck, Jim Hudson, Combs, J.O. Orendorf and Margaret Garriss. Seated are Basil Griffin and Mayor Charles Hardcastle.

CALENDER OF EVENTS

- * Sunday, November 9th - 3:00 PM
Reception at the Chamber of Commerce
- * Monday, November 10 thru Saturday, November 16:
Exhibit - Bowling Green Public Library
Exhibit - Kentucky Library and Museum
- * A Television Documentary on Duncan Hines prepared by Western Kentucky University students, will be shown Monday, November 10th at 12:00 noon and 6:00 p.m.
- * A coloring book on the life and achievements of Duncan Hines will be distributed to 4th grade students. This book was prepared by members of students in Free Enterprise (S.I.F.E.) at Western Kentucky University.
- * Participating restaurants will offer special Duncan Hines menus during the week.

LOOK FOR SPECIAL DISPLAYS OF THE MIXES AT YOUR FAVORITE FOOD STORES

WHAT IS THE COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY!

The Community College is another option in furthering your education after high school.

It offers courses that lead to the Associate of General Studies, Associate of Arts, and Associate of Science degrees. Most courses may be transferred to a four-year baccalaureate program.

Areas of study include such fields as business, health, technology, and general studies.

If you're looking for a small college atmosphere with individual attention, convenient hours, and class schedules designed to fit your needs and interests, call us for more information.

The Community College of Western Kentucky University
Room 316, Science and Technology Hall
Western Kentucky University

745-5371

YOUR FUTURE BEGINS HERE

D.N.

11-10-86

Area auditions for theme park

Kentucky Kingdom, a family theme park opening this spring in Louisville, is searching for performers and technicians for its six live shows.

The shows will contain a range of themes and applicants' selections should reflect all styles of popular music.

Auditions for singers, pianist, dancers, instrumentalists and technicians in the Western Kentucky area will be at 6 p.m. Nov. 17 at Western Kentucky University's Van Meter Auditorium.

Singers and pianists should prepare two or three one-minute selections. Pianists and other instrumentalists will be asked to sight read and should bring typed resumes and references.

Dancers are to prepare a one-minute routine while technicians should also bring typed resumes and references. Groups or bands should call at (502) 363-6633 to make special arrangements.

Applicants may bring an accompanist or taped accompaniment. A pianist will be provided. Call-backs will be immediately after the first round of auditions.

For more information, contact Kentucky Kingdom, P.O. Box 37386, Louisville, Ky., 40233.

D.N.
10-10-86

(Staff Photo by Mark Workman)

Warm shoulder

THE POSITIVE side of cold weather is demonstrated by John Fares and Karen Franz, both of Owensboro, Tuesday afternoon as he uses his jacket to help shield her from the cold. The couple were walking near Miss Franz' residence at McCormack Hall on Western Kentucky University's campus. There may be lots of sharing of body warmth the next two nights as temperatures are forecast to dip into the teens.

D.N. 11-12-86

WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

Sexual Harassment in the Workplace: Dr. Lois Layne, professor in the department of psychology, will speak during the Women's Alliance meeting at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday in the Executive Dining Room of Downing University Center on the campus in Bowling Green, Ky.

Lecture: Ellen Gilchrist, author of "The Annunciation" and three collections of short stories, will lecture at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Van Meter Auditorium. Sponsored by the University Lecture Series and the English Department. C.J. 11-16-86

Bowling Green, Ky. — Capitol Arts Center, 416 E. Main St. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday. Paintings, weavings and ceramics by Kelly Shay, through Nov. 28.

University Gallery, Fine Arts Center, Western Kentucky University. 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Monday-Friday. Sculptures by Robert Lockhart, Tuesday through Dec. 19. C.J. 11-17-86

Coming Attractions

D.A. 11-13-86

EDITOR'S NOTE: Individuals or groups are encouraged to submit items concerning happenings and events in Southcentral Kentucky to the Coming Attractions column, which appears every Thursday. There is no charge and items should be submitted at least two weeks in advance of the event. Deadline is noon Wednesday.

CONCERTS

The department of music at Western Kentucky University continues its Edward J. Pease Memorial Faculty Concert Series with chamber recital by Larry Long on bassoon, David Vincent on percussion and Linda Harmon on piano at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the recital hall of Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center. Admission is $3 at the door or $15 for entire series. Call 745-3751 for added details.

The department of music at Western Kentucky University presents Susan Parks on clarinet in a graduate recital at 3 p.m. Sunday in the recital hall of Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center. Admission is free and the public is invited.

There will be a Friends of New Music recital at 8 p.m. Monday in the recital hall of the Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center at Western. In conjunction with the department of music at Western Kentucky University, the Student Woodwind Quintet and Saxophone Quartet will also perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the recital hall. Admission is free and the public is invited to both events.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The public library's "Tots and Moms Activity Time" will meet at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in the program room.

The Arts Alliance will sponsor an Art Auction at 8 p.m. Nov. 22 at the Bowling Green Country Club. Patricia Galleries of Atlanta, Ga., will be supplying the framed pictures for sale. Admission is free and those interested may view the art work before the auction. Proceeds are to benefit the Capitol Arts Center.

The Carter House Chapter of the Association for the Preservation of Tennessee Antiquities will have a Christmas Candlelight Homes Tour Dec. 6 and Dec. 7 in Franklin, Tenn. Tours will start at 4:30 p.m. each day and tickets are on sale for $4. For more information, contact The Carter House in Franklin.

PRODUCTIONS

"Don't count your chickens until they cry 'wolf'" will be presented by Western's department of communication and theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The production is part of the 1986 Children's Theatre Series. All performances will be in Theatre 100 of Gordon Wilson Hall at Western. Admission is 50 cents and showtimes are 4 p.m. Friday and at 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Western Kentucky University Theatre presents "The Miss Firecracker Contest" by Beth Henley at 8 p.m. Nov. 18- Nov. 22 at Western's Russell H. Miller Theatre. Tickets are $4, $2 for students and senior citizens. For more information, call 745-3121 or 745-3296.

The Capitol Arts Center and American National Bank will present a sold out performance by the national touring company of "A Chorus Line" at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Touch of Arts will present the musical revue, "Strictly Logan," on Nov. 21-22 at deGraf-fenried Auditorium in Russellville. Wayne Posey's music and Shelly Steele Cataxinos' choreography will be featured. Twenty-six acts are scheduled, including performances in song by the quartet made up of Jim Young, Buddy Linton, Joe Hardy and Ken Barrett. Solos will be performed by Rev. Norman Witthuhn, W.P. "Winky" Sosh and Vicki Cross. There will be a tap dancing act and a Charleston act by Dr. and Mrs. Bill Webb.

The Capitol Arts Center will present the Metro Theatre Circus' "In a room somewhere," on Nov. 19-20 for Bowling Green and Warren County schoolchildren. The production is the second show of the center's annual School-Day Performance Series.

FILMS, FILMSTRIPS AND STORIES

The public library will show children's films at 10:30 a.m. Saturday and 3:45 p.m. Tuesday in the library program room.

The public library's preschool storytime will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and Thursday in the program room.

EXHIBITS

An exhibit of more than 60 Ivan Wilson paintings is on view at the Kentucky Museum. John Warren Oakes, associate professor of art at Western and a student of Wilson, will be the exhibit's guest curator. The museum, located Western's campus is open 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and 1 p.m.-4:30 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Two photography exhibitions are on display in the University Gallery of Western's Fine Arts Center. Photographs by Bulgarian photographer Antony Georgieff and sabbatical works by John Warren Oakes are on view through Friday. Gallery hours are 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Monday-Friday.

The second exhibition in Kentucky Artists Series sponsored by the department of art at Western Kentucky University will feature works by Louisville sculptor Robert Lockhart and will open Tuesday in the University Gallery. Lockhart will also present a workshop on Tuesday (for time, call 745-3944). The exhibit will run through Dec. 19.

A "Canadian Quilt Collection" is on display at the Kentucky Museum. The collection of 13 quilts and 2 pillowcovers will be on display through January.

D. N. 11-14-86

WKU student elected

ATLANTA (AP) — A Western Kentucky University student was elected to the board of directors of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, during the organization's annual convention today.

Mack Humphreys, a junior from Mayfield, was one of four students elected. Others were Michael A.

Sponhour of Ohio State University, Amy West of the University of Tennessee and Kate Lehman of Arizona State University.

Robert H. Wills, editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel, was named president of the organization.

Wills, who had been president-elect, succeeds Robert Lewis, the Washington correspondent for Newhouse News Service. Lewis remains on the board as immediate past president.

James F. Plante, managing director of news support services for NBC News, was named president-elect, and Paul Davis, news director of WGN-TV in Chicago, was named secretary. They had been secretary and treasurer, respectively.

In the only contested race for an office, Carolyn Carlson of The Associated Press' Atlanta bureau was elected treasurer over Mike Hammer, chief investigative reporter and political editor of The Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City. The vote was 216-112.

The treasurer's job is considered the first rung on an automatic ladder leading to the presidency.

(Staff Photo by Mark Workman)

Braced against cold

DONNA HAWKINS, a Western Kentucky University freshman from Bowling Green, bundled up this morning to ward off the cold while walking to class. Temperatures in Bowling Green dipped to 14 degrees overnight, according to State Climatologist Glen Conner. The Bowling Green-Warren County Airport, however, recorded a low of 18 degrees. Tonight's forecast by the National Weather Service calls for clear skies and freezing temperatures again with a low of 15 to 20 degrees. Friday will see increasing clouds, a high in the low 40s. Some scattered snow flurries were reported in the area this morning, Conner said. There was, however, no accumulation. D. N. 11-13-86

Soviet diplomat speaker

Paul Pavlov, counsel to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C., will discuss Soviet-American relations at 8 tonight in Grise Hall Auditorium on Western Kentucky University's campus.

Pavlov is substituting for Vitaly Churkin, first deputy

College bulletin available

11-16-80
The 1987 spring semester schedule bulletin for the community college at Western Kentucky University is now available.

The bulletin includes information on admission, registration, fees, financial aid, academic advising, campus facilities, academic programs and credit descriptions.

Advance registration for the spring semester will be 4 p.m.-8 p.m. Dec. 8-9 with final registration 4 p.m.-8 p.m. on Jan. 8.

Evening classes start Jan. 12 and day classes start Jan. 13.

Courses offered in the college will lead to the associate of general studies, associate of arts, and associate of science degrees.

For a copy of the bulletin, contact the Community College Office, 316 Science and Technology Hall, Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, Ky., 42101.

Inauguration set Saturday

Inauguration ceremonies for Western Kentucky University President Kern Alexander are scheduled 2 p.m. Saturday in Van Meter Auditorium.

Dr. Charles B. Reed, chancellor of the University of Florida System, will be the featured speaker.

A reception will follow at 3:30 p.m. in the Garrett Conference Center Ballroom.

Other activities include receptions this week hosted by student and alumni groups in the Bowling Green-Warren County community.

Musical performances, an unveiling of a display of presidential memorabilia and a special address by Dr. Vivian Williams of Oxford University in England are also planned for the week.

Complete details will be announced as events are scheduled.

Alexander was named Western's seventh president by the university board of regents last December.

Student receives chemistry award

Dallas Meloon, a graduate student at Western Kentucky University, received the Carl P. McNally Fellowship Award Nov. 1 for study in chemistry.

Meloon is from Jeffersonville. He was selected as one of the outstanding chemistry students to receive the annual award.

The award was established in 1978 through the Ogden Foundation in memory of Dr. Carl P. McNally who served as head of Western's chemistry department for 39 years.

Soviet official is guest speaker

Vitaly Churkin, first deputy of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C., will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday at Western Kentucky University's Grise Hall Auditorium.

The forum "Talking about Peace: A Conversation with a Soviet Leader," is sponsored by the Western chapter of United Crmpuses to Prevent Nuclear War (UCAM).

Evans elected to post

11-16-56
By KIM SWIFT

Daily News Special Writer

Western Kentucky University's faculty has a new representative on the school's Board of Regents.

Challenger Dr. Eugene E. Evans, a professor of management and marketing, defeated incumbent Mary Ellen Miller in the race for faculty regent by four votes.

Evans, who said he will resign as chairman of the Faculty Senate, received 209 votes compared to the 205 garnered by Mrs. Miller.

The runoff election for the three-year post was conducted during business hours Thursday and Friday at Western.

"I am astonished," Evans said Saturday. "I didn't expect to win because I had no organization, came into the race late and Mrs. Miller had such a commanding lead in the first race."

Evans, who said he wants to help the board arrive at a "considered educational philosophy," will begin his term Jan. 29 at the scheduled Board of Regents meeting, according to Fred Hensley, public information director at Western.

Regarding the close vote margin, Evans said, "I hope that all those who didn't vote for me will come to think of me as representing them well."

Mrs. Miller, criticized throughout the campaign as being a weak voice and a "rubber stamp" on the Board of Regents, said the margin showed both candidates had equal support.

Those eligible to vote included full-time faculty members — assistant professors and above — as well as administrators with faculty status. Mrs. Miller said 582 faculty members were eligible, and 414 used that privilege.

The breakdown of the votes by colleges showed that Evans had stronger support in the College of Business Administration. He had 54 votes over Mrs. Miller's five votes.

In the College of Education, Evans received 22 votes, Mrs. Miller 55; College of Arts and Humanities and Social Sciences, Evans 57, Mrs. Miller 72; Ogden College of Science, Technology and Health, Evans 58, Mrs. Miller 56; and College of Academic Services, Evans 18, Mrs. Miller 17.

Mrs. Miller said she was disappointed about her loss but wished Evans the best.

Continued on Page 10
Column 3, This Section

Evans

From
Page 1

D.N. 11-16-56
"I told him (Friday) night to call me if he needed me for anything," she said. "I think all the faculty are interested and concerned as to who serves as their regent, and they would wish Dr. Evans the best and help him in any way they can."

Mrs. Miller said she will continue her extracurricular duties at Western including working on committees and the Academic Council.

Evans, a native of Peoria, Ill., has a bachelor's degree from the University of Maryland and masters and doctoral degrees from the University of Illinois.

He previously taught at Hamline University in St. Paul, Minn., and the University of Kentucky.

Since 1965 he has been a faculty member at Western.

He said his first task as faculty regent will be "to earn the confidence and trust of the other regents."

He said it should not be difficult.

"I anticipate that I'll get along famously with them," Evans said.

The runoff between the two candidates came about after the regular election conducted Oct. 30-31 resulted in a logjam.

Five candidates ran in the regular election. But in order to win outright on the first ballot, a candidate must receive at least 50 percent of the vote in accordance with the rules of the Faculty Senate's By-laws, Amendments and Elections Committee.

None of the candidates received 50 percent of the vote, so a runoff between the two top vote recipients — Mrs. Miller and Evans — was scheduled.

Mrs. Miller received the most support in the regular election, garnering 208 votes — or 47 percent. She was 14 votes shy of being re-elected outright. Evans received 114 votes — or 26 percent.

SUNDAY

3 P.M. RECITAL. Susan Parks will hold a graduate recital in the Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center's Recital Hall. The clarinet recital is free and open to the public. For additional information call 745-3751.

MONDAY

8 P.M. 'THE FRIENDS OF NEW MUSIC' is a performance of 20th century music by the WKU department of music in the Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center's Recital Hall. The performance is free and open to the public. For additional information call 745-3751.

3 P.M. 'STOP SMOKING WORKSHOP'. Dr. Richard Wilson, associate professor in the department of health and safety at WKU, will present an informative and refreshing seminar on various aspects of smoking — ways and reasons to quit. Dates are Monday through Friday, Nov. 17-21. All activities will be held in Downing University Center, room 349. There is a $10 registration fee which will be reimbursed to all participants with perfect attendance. To register for further information on the seminar, contact David Sloss, wellness coordinator, at 745-5366.

TUESDAY

11:45 A.M. 'SEXUAL HARASSMENT IN THE WORKPLACE' will be the topic addressed by Dr. Lois Layne, professor in WKU's department of psychology, during the Women's Alliance Meeting. The meeting will take place in the Executive Dining Room of Downing University Center.

11:45 A.M. 'A LOCAL POTPOURRI' is the theme for this fall's lunchtime learning program coordinated by Carol Crowe-Carraco, professor of history. WKU history professor Lowell Harrison and Nancy D. Baird will lead the forum. For more information contact the Kentucky Building at 745-2592. The forum is free and participants may bring their lunch.

8 P.M. ELLEN GILCHRIST, author of "The Annunciation," published in 1983 and three collections of short stories "In the Land of Dreamy Dreams," "Victory Over Japan" and "Drunk with Love," will speak in Van Meter Auditorium. Gilchrist, whose lecture is sponsored by the University Lecture Series and the English department, first began writing a column for a local Franklin, Ky. paper at 14 years old and can now be heard as a weekly commentator on National Public Radio. The lecture is free and open to the public.

8 P.M. 'THE MISS FIRECRACKER CONTEST,' a play by Beth Henley, will be presented by the WKU department of communication and theatre nightly at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18 through Saturday, Nov. 22. A matinee performance will be held Sunday, Nov. 23 at 3 p.m. The play will be held in the Ivan Wilson Center's Russell H. Miller Theatre. Admission is $1 for students and senior citizens and $4 for adults. For reservations or additional information call 745-3121 or 745-3296.

8 P.M. FACULTY CONCERT SERIES continues with a recital by three department of music faculty members Larry Long on bassoon, David Vincent, percussion, and Linda Harmon on piano. The recital will be held in the Ivan Wilson Center Recital Hall. Admission is $3 at the door. For additional information call 745-3751.

WEDNESDAY

8 P.M. A RECITAL will be given by the Student Woodwind Quintet and Saxophone Quartet in the Ivan Wilson Center Recital Hall. The recital is free and open to the public. For additional information call 745-3751.

THURSDAY

5 P.M. 'CHILD DEVELOPMENT: MORAL, COGNITIVE AND SOCIAL' will be the topic addressed by Barbara Strandee, assistant professor of nursing at WKU and Donna Bussey, instructor of nursing at WKU in Downing University Center. For more information call Mona Moughton, 745-3391.

FRIDAY

7:30 A.M. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COFFEE HOUR will be held at the Agriculture Exposition Center's Double Classroom and Sales Arena. For additional information call 843-3542 or Bowling Green Chamber of Commerce at 781-3200.

SATURDAY

9 A.M. SOUTH CENTRAL KENTUCKY CHAMPIONSHIP GARDEN TRACTOR PULL will be held in the main arena of the Agriculture Exposition Center until 5 p.m. For additional information call Grover Willoughby at 842-0297 or the Agriculture Exposition Center at 843-3542.

A job well done

Editor, Daily News:

Recently, twenty-nine sheriffs and deputies graduated from the first Kentucky Sheriffs Academy at Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, Ky.!

One of the graduates completing the 140 hour - four week course was Deputy Tommy Flora, Warren County, and the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association is very proud to recognize Deputy Flora as a member of the first graduating class. The curriculum consisted of the various duties of the Sheriff's Office and those graduating will be much better prepared to carry out the duties of a sheriff and deputy in their county after having attended the Academy.

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Association is not fortunate enough at this time to receive funding to cover the cost of the school as other law enforcement agencies throughout the Commonwealth do and therefore, it is up to the sheriff and deputy to pay their own way to attend the school. We are hopeful that it will be only a matter of time until our Sheriff's Offices will also receive funding for training for sheriffs and deputies, statewide.

The curriculum, established for sheriffs and deputies, has come to the attention of other state Sheriff's Associations since we initiated our program and many are interested in attending the Sheriff's Academy in Bowling Green.

The Kentucky State Police have also been instrumental in helping sheriffs and deputies this year by providing three seminars for us in different parts of Kentucky and we are extremely grateful for their help.

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Association would like to thank Sheriff Jerry Gaines, Warren County, Dr. Kern Alexander, President, Western Kentucky University and Dr. Clayton Riley for helping get this new Sheriff's Academy off to a successful beginning.

Again, congratulations to Deputy Tommy Flora and his twenty-eight fellow graduates for a job well done.

Ray H. Stoess,
Executive Director
Ky. Sheriffs Assoc.
2367 Valley Vista Rd.
Louisville, KY 40205

Girl Scout reunion

Letter, Daily News:

During March of 1987 Girl Scouting will celebrate its 75th birthday. We are looking for all former and current girl scouts and/or leaders to join in a special reunion dinner to be held on March 5, 1987, at the Garrett Conference Center on Western's Campus. Anyone involved at any time or place in the Girl Scout organization is urged to contact the local scout office at 1128 Magnolia Avenue, Bowling Green (842-8138).

Nancy Priest
Chairman
Reunion Committee
1113 Highland Drive
Bowling Green

D. IV
11-18-86

Scholarship winners announced

D.N.

11-19-86

LARRY BROWN, (second from left) distict manager of Western Kentucky Gas, announced recently that (left to right) Debra LeGrand and Kerrie Elliott, senior chemistry majors from Madisonville and Bowling Green, and Ray Mills, a geology major from Greensburg, will receive company-sponsored scholarships at Western Kentucky University. Western Kentucky Gas contrirbutes $10,000 a year toward undergraduate education for science and math teachers for Kentucky schools.

(Staff Photo by Mark Workman)

Decorations go up

RIC ROBINSON (left) and Bob Stone (right), members of Kappa Alpha fraternity, help Tim Maly of the Beautification Commission put up Christmas wreaths on Fountain Square. Other groups helping with the decorations were Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Youth Volunteers in Action. The annual lighting of Fountain Square Park is scheduled at 7 p.m. Nov. 28.

D.N. 11-20-86

Coming Attractions

O.N. 11-20-86

EDITOR'S NOTE: Individuals or groups are encouraged to submit items concerning happenings and events in Southcentral Kentucky to the Coming Attractions column, which appears every Thursday. There is no charge and items should be submitted at least two weeks in advance of the event. Deadline is noon Wednesday.

CONCERTS

The Bowling Green chapter of the Sweet Adelines presents "Sing a Rainbow" at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Capitol Arts Center. Tickets are $5, $3.50 for senior citizens and $2.50 for students.

The department of music at Western Kentucky University presents the WKU Jazz Ensemble at 8 p.m. Monday in the recital hall of Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center. Admission is free and the public is invited.

The department of music at Western Kentucky University presents Steve Weber on guitar in a graduate recital at 3 p.m. Sunday and Ruth Ellen Cooper on guitar at 8 p.m. Tuesday in a junior recital. Both performances will be in the recital hall of Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Western Kentucky University's department of music and the Bowling Green-Western Symphony Orchestra present a Messiah Sing-In at 8 p.m. Nov. 28 at the Capitol Arts Center. Everyone is invited to participate. Admission is $5 for adults, $3 for students. For more information, contact the department of music at 745-3751.

Arts Center

The Carter House Chapter of the Association for the Preservation of Tennessee Antiquities will have a Christmas Candlelight Homes Tour Dec. 6 and Dec. 7 in Franklin, Tenn. Tours will start at 4:30 p.m. each day and tickets are on sale for $4. For more information, contact The Carter House in Franklin.

PRODUCTIONS

"Goldilocks and the Three Bears and The Three Little Pigs" will be presented by Western's department of communication and theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The production is part of the 1986 Children's Theatre Series. All performances will be in Theatre 100 of Gordon Wilson Hall at Western. Admission is 50 cents and showtimes are 4 p.m. Friday and at 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Western Kentucky University Theatre presents "The Miss Firecracker Contest" by Beth Henley at 8 p.m. today through Saturday at Western's Russell H. Miller Theatre. Tickets are $4, $2 for students and senior citizens. For more information, call 745-3121 or 745-3296.

The Touch of Arts will present the musical revue, "Strictly Logan," Friday and Saturday at deGraffenried Auditorium in Russellville. Wayne Posey's music and Shelly Steele Cataxinos' choreography will be featured. Twenty-six acts are scheduled, including performances in song by the quartet made up of Jim Young, Buddy Linton, Joe Hardy and Ken Barrett. Solos will be performed by Rev. Norman Witthuhn, W.P. "Winky" Sosh and Vicki Cross. There will be a tap dancing act and a Charleston act by Dr. and Mrs. Bill Webb.

The Capitol Arts Center will present the Metro Theatre Circus' "In a room somewhere," today for Bowling Green and Warren County schoolchildren. The production is the second show of the center's annual School-Day Performance Series.

FILMS, FILMSTRIPS AND STORIES

The public library will show children's films at 3:45 p.m. Saturday and Tuesday in the library program room.

The public library's preschool storytime will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the program room. The library will be closed on Thursday.

Capitol Classic Films presents John Ford's "The Man who shot Liberty Valance" at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Capitol. Admission is $2.

EXHIBITS

An exhibit of more than 60 Ivan Wilson paintings is on view at the Kentucky Museum. John Warren Oakes, associate professor of art at Western and a student of Wilson, will be the exhibit's guest curator. The museum, located Western's campus is open 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and 1 p.m.-4:30 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge.

The second exhibition in Kentucky Artists Series sponsored by the department of art at Western Kentucky University will feature works by Louisville sculptor Robert Lockhart. The exhibit, at the University Gallery, will run through Dec. 19.

A "Canadian Quilt Collection" is on display at the Kentucky Museum. The collection of 13 quilts and 2 pillowcovers will be on display through January.

The Kentucky Museum's Fall 1986 Lunchtime Learning Series continues at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday. Frances D. Perdue will speak on "Caroline Gordon and a Sense of Place," and Helen B. Crocker will present "In search of Lincoln." All programs are free and at the Kentucky Building. Participants may bring a lunch.

On view in the Upper Lobby at the Capitol Arts Center is a display of posters by Franklin Ross & Associates. The show runs through Nov. 28. Gallery hours are 8:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday.

"A life in miniature," the latest Curator's Choice exhibit will go on display Friday at the Kentucky Museum. The show, which focuses on miniature furniture made and used between 1850 to 1920, will run through the holiday season.

Rejoice in the Christmas season as we bring Fountain Square Park to light and fill The Capitol with song!

Join family and friends on Friday,
November 28, as we ring in the holidays
by lighting the Citizens Christmas Tree.

A children's choir and jolly old Saint Nick will join us in the festivities which begin at 7:00.
This breathtaking display of lights will delight young and old alike.

Following the tree lighting, plan to attend the "Messiah Sing-In" at The Capitol at 8:00.
Accompanied by the Bowling Green Western Symphony Orchestra, this glorious rendition of Handel's Messiah will fill your heart with song.

Tickets to the Sing-In are available at all Citizens locations, WKU Music Department,
Snyders, Embry's and The Capitol. Ticket prices are $5 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens, and $1.50 for children under 12. All proceeds benefit the Bowling Green Western Symphony Orchestra.

D. N.
11-20-56

WKU departments readying eighteen excellence center bids

11-20-86
By THOMAS T. ROSS
Daily News Staff Writer

Work on as many as 18 different proposals denoting why a particular program at Western Kentucky University should be named a state center of excellence has begun.

Earlier this month, the ad-hoc committee of the state's eight university presidents and three state Council on Higher Education members approved a set of guidelines that university departments must follow when applying for consideration.

The 1986 state General Assembly approved $1.875 million in funds to create at least four centers of excellence and $2 million to create four endowed chairs.

The ad-hoc committee agreed four-eight centers of excellence should be created, limiting the awards for centers $150,000-$400,000 per institution.

The idea behind the centers and chairs, according to the principles outlined by the ad-hoc committee, is to enhance quality at an institution of higher education and, as appropriate, enhance the local, regional or state economy.

And a center shall be based on demonstrated superiority in quality and achievement, the committee said.

Dr. Charles Kupchella, dean of Ogden College of Science, Technology and Health, said he has received at least seven letters of intent from departments wishing to submit proposals.

He said the Department of Industrial and Engineering Technology plans three proposals, including a general proposal from the center of manufacturing technology, an electrical proposal from engineering technology and a solar energy proposal.

Two proposals — climatology and cave and karst groundwater — are to be submitted by the Department of Geography and Geology, Kupchella said.

The Department of Chemistry plans to submit a proposal covering its center of coal science and the Department of Health and Safety plans to propose a center of excellence for a program on rural health.

Dr. Ward Hellstrom, dean of Potter College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, said he knows of about seven departments planning to submit proposals, including the Department of Journalism.

Hellstrom also said the Department of Communication and Theatre plans to submit a proposal on the performing arts. The Department of English, in association with other departments, plans a proposal on strengthening liberal education.

The Department of English is also working on a proposal to include international education.

Other proposals include: The Department of History, Kentucky studies; the Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies, folk studies; and the Department of Philosophy and Religion, master's in humanities.

Dr. Robert Hershberger, dean of the Bowling Green College of Business Administration, said three of his departments are planning to submit proposals.

They include programs from the departments of Economics, Management and Marketing and Accounting.

Dr. Roger Pankratz, assistant dean for instruction in the College of Education and Behavioral Sciences, said the college plans only one comprehensive proposal under the Department of Teacher Education.

"It's much broader than just the Department of Education," Pankratz said. "It's a university-wide approach, but the leadership will come from the College of Education and Behavioral Sciences."

Western's Graduate College won't make a proposal, according to its dean, Dr. Elmer Gray.

"The Graduate College won't make a proposal, per se," Gray said. "As the Graduate College we work with the entire university. We don't have the territory or the facilities."

Each dean emphasized the proposals are tentative. Some departments, after composing and reviewing their proposals, may decide not to apply. While other departmental programs not mentioned still have plenty of time to be considered.

Departments have until March 2, 1987 to submit their proposals to the CHE.

Soviet visitor: Envoy stresses to 11-21-86

By THOMAS T. ROSS
Daily News Staff Writer

The Soviet diplomat spoke with two different audiences during his visit to Bowling Green, but the message was the same: The Soviet Union wants peace.

Paul Pavlov, counsel to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, addressed about 200-250 adults Thursday night at Western Kentucky University and this morning talked with Cheryl McFarland's inquisitive fourth-grade class at T.C. Cherry Elementary School.

His visit, which ends Saturday, is sponsored by Western's chapter of United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War and the National Student Council in the Soviet Union.

Pavlov, 48, has been in his position at the Soviet Embassy for six years. Educated as a lawyer, he has been in the Soviet diplomatic corp for 25 years.

He is the father of two children and has a 9-month-old grandson. His wife and family live in Moscow.

The audience at Western, made up mostly of Western students and faculty, also included several emigres from the Soviet Union.

While the fourth-graders were mostly curious in their questions to Pavlov about Soviet life, the audience at Western was more accusatory about Soviet foreign and internal policies.

Hardball questions were raised about the Soviet military presence in Afghanistan, human rights in the Soviet Union, nuclear disarmament, the Strategic Defense Initiative and the Iceland Summit.

Asked about alleged atrocities against Afghanistan civilians, Pavlov said the reports are "propaganda."

"It's not propaganda," one of the audience members said. "You're doing the same thing you did in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and the Baltic states. We believe it because it has happened. And you ask us to trust you."

"Once again, this is the sort of conception of the Soviet Union that is very hard for me to make you believe otherwise," Pavlov said. "You hear me, but you don't listen."

BG audiences that Soviets want peace

Pavlov said the invasion of Afghanistan was necessary for the Soviet Union to protect its southeastern frontier, which Afghanistan, Iran and Iraq border. He said his country feared Afghanistan was becoming an American base.

He denied that Soviet troops are committing atrocities against civilians in Afghanistan, despite published reports to the contrary. He said the atrocities are being committed by the Afghan rebels against captured Soviet soldiers, reports that also have been documented in the Western press.

"What my people went through — 20 million have died in the last two wars," said Pavlov. "It means a lot. Once you have seen other people scream and die under the bombs, the rockets, you see that you cannot do this. I categorically deny the Soviet Union is engaged in any sort of action against the civilian population."

Another member of the audience read a short list of Soviet religious dissidents who have sought to emigrate but have yet to be granted permission. She asked Pavlov when the dissidents would be released.

"We never judge people by religion," Pavlov said. "If some people want to go to the United States for the single reason of religion, we let them go. It might take months, a year. But the local authorities are empowered to give exit visas."

"But people who want to leave and have had access to governmental secrets must wait six years," he continued. "We feel that after six years the information they are linked to will be outdated."

He said the Soviet government recently introduced new legislation

Continued Back Page
Column 3, This Section

Soviet visitor

From
Page 1

M

that will process most emigration requests in a matter of months. He said requests for health or family reasons may be met within three days.

But Dr. Sam McFarland, a psychology teacher at Western who recently returned from the Soviet Union, said he talked with Soviets who had been trying for the past eight-ten years to emigrate. They're not in the position to know government secrets, he said, so why can't they leave?

"While the Soviet Union is not a homogenic country — we have more than 100 nationalities — we are not a nation of emigrants," Pavlov said. "It doesn't mean we should prompt everyone to go. Those who want to are given permission."

"We are different countries, different societies," he continued. "Why do you want us to copy the United States of America? Why should we be prompted to accept everything you want?"

An audience member yelled if the Soviet Union allowed open emigration half of the country's population would leave.

But McFarland, coming to Pavlov's aid, said that's not true. He said his impression is that most Soviet citizens want to stay, but they are unsatisfied at not having the choice.

Turning to U.S.-Soviet relations, Pavlov was asked how the two countries can open up a "sincere, trustful relationship?"

"Seemingly, that's the simplest but most difficult question to find an answer to," Pavlov said. "What we are witnessing is a mistrust between the two governments. We need to meet more often, perhaps two meetings a year. One in the Soviet Union and one in the United States or perhaps a third country."

"I'm in favor of that," he continued. "But we not only have to talk with each other, but we have to listen to each other. One has to sit and talk with an open mind. We have to have the presumption that we are equal, that we are equally disturbed by global problems and how to fight them together. If only we could listen to each other."

Pavlov said his country is not concerned as much with the military aspect of SDI — the stumbling block in President Reagan's arms meeting in Iceland with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev — as it is with the loss of trust the plan has caused.

Reagan contends SDI is a defensive weapon while the Soviets consider it an offensive weapon.

"The proposal at the Iceland meeting to eliminate nuclear weapons was ours," Pavlov said. "No one can say it wasn't. But we hope from this a follow-up meeting will be held."

The mood in Mrs. McFarland's class was a bit lighter. Both the children and Pavlov took to each other immediately.

He was asked what was his favorite subject in school. "Doing nothing, I suppose," he said with a laugh. "Seriously, I liked Russian language and literature. But I didn't like mathematics."

He told them of his days in grade school. He began his schooling in 1946, a year after World War II ended. The German bombs had left many of Russia's cities in rubble.

"Only one of the 17 buildings in the city was left standing," he said. "So we had class there, with 50 pupils in one room of this size. We had no paper to write on. So we used the free edges of newspapers to write our work."

He told the children he played basketball and volleyball, but soccer was his favorite sport.

Pavlov explained how cold it can get in the Soviet Union, saying in Siberia the temperature can dip to 60 degrees below zero.

"At 40 degrees below we stop work," he said. "It's terrible. When you breath, the vapor from your exhalation drops as icicles to the ground."

Asked what he thought of Americans, Pavlov said, "Americans are the same as we are. They are peace-loving, they like sports and they like to be entertained. The only thing we don't see eye to eye on is how to get rid of the arms race."

In a similar vein Thursday night, Pavlov was asked what he wants for his children.

"Peace," he answered.

(Staff Photo by Mark Workman)

PAUL PAVLOV, the counsel to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, fields questions this morning from students in Cheryl McFarland's fourth-grade class at T.C. Cherry Elementary School. Pavlov is a guest of Western Kentucky University's chapter of United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War and the National Student Council in the Soviet Union. He spoke at Western on Thursday night and will return to Washington on Saturday.

D.N.

11-21-86

History really comes down to what happened here, why, and to whom

11-21-86

By KIM SWIFT

Daily News Special Writer

Smiths Grove is a special community. Ask anyone who lives there.

To prove and celebrate it, Dr. Carol Crowe-Carrico, a history professor at Western Kentucky University, launched a series of programs on Smiths Grove Nov. 17.

To begin the program "Building a Community: Culture and History of Smiths Grove," Mrs. Crowe-Carrico told about 15 area residents at the Smiths Grove Library where to dig for local history.

"Local history is important," Mrs. Carraco said, "because it is our history and very present for us."

She quoted a Harvard professor who recently said, "Local history is the fastest growing intellectual pursuit in the country."

More Kentucky history books should be used in Kentucky schools, Mrs. Carraco said. "The things that happen in Kentucky happen everywhere."

For instance, students would enjoy reading about the Civil War if it were told from a Kentucky perspective, she said.

When researching local history, the history professor warned the group of the tendency to turn research into a recitation of marriage documents and dates. But if you add more interesting information and anecdotes, "it can add flesh to bones."

After going to the Kentucky Library, Mrs. Crowe-Carrico said materials on Smiths Grove, which was incorporated in 1871, were few and hard to find.

So she suggested other routes on the local history path.

Newspapers are great history sources, she said. And Smiths Grove had its own "Smiths Grove Times" in 1850.

No copies are on file at the Kentucky Library, but if a researcher were to find copies, they would be helpful. Other area papers such as the Daily News, could be of use, though.

Church minutes can give clues in the "history mystery," she said.

Each of the four churches in Smiths Grove has kept minutes over the years. The Baptist Church began in 1812, so its records are a good source.

Schools also kept records which are full of interesting information about a community, Mrs. Carraco said.

These records can be found either in the county courthouse or the State Library and Archives.

Besides records kept by the school, Mrs. Crowe-Carrico suggested using yearbooks and scrapbooks.

These resources tell what was important at the time such as athletic events or school clubs. She showed a copy of a picture of the sophomore class at the Smiths Grove school around 1926.

Besides the public school, Smiths Grove was the home of the Smiths Grove Training School for Vanderbilt University, a private preparatory school open during the turn of the century, she said.

Other sources to use for a "fleshy" local history include diaries, letters and photographs.

She suggested putting an ad in the paper asking for old Smiths Grove photographs.

Other tidbits of information to piece local history together include ticket stubs, wedding announcements, party invitations and anything else interesting to a history buff.

(Staff Photo by Kim Swift)

DR. CAROL CROWE-CARRICO spoke on Smiths Grove history and how to locate sources to an audience at the Smiths Grove Library recently. She explained where to find records to "flesh out" the bones provided by deeds and marriage lines.

Mrs. Crowe-Carrico's lecture was the first in a six-month series of programs on Smiths Grove sponsored by the Smiths Grove Library.

According to Smiths Grove librarian Pat Houchins, "Our December program is being funded by the Kentucky Folklife Foundation. We are very fortunate to be finding sponsors for the monthly projects, but we are still seeking funding for future programs and our Smiths Grove Resource Center."

Some of the upcoming programs include an historic walking tour, an oral history project, programs about the business and industry of the area, talks on local photographs as history, using objects to study a community's past and area celebrations.

As Dr. Annie Archbold said as she introduced Mrs. Crowe-Carrico, "This is a kind of celebration of Smiths Grove about the things that make Smiths Grove a special place."

BG native named music director

Peter McNally Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Bryant of Bowling Green, has been appointed music director of radio station WHYY in Philadelphia, Pa.

Bryant, a 1982 graduate of Western Kentucky University, has been with WHYY for the past two years.

Prior to that, he was with WKYH-FM at Western

$55,000 pledged during phonothon

Nearly $55,000 was pledged to Western Kentucky University through the school's recent phonothon campaign, which ended Thursday.

The three-week campaign enlisted student volunteers to solicit funds from alumni over the telephone.

A total of $54,917 was pledged — the highest pledge total in the six-year history of the phonothon.

This year's total exceeded the campaign goal by nearly $18,000.

CHE director search continues

The Executive Committee of the Council on Higher Education will meet at 1:30 p.m. CST Sunday in the council's conference room in Frankfort.

The tentative agenda includes the continuing search for an executive director, which likely will be conducted in executive session.

Program features Canadian envoy

U.S. Ambassador to Canada Thomas Niles will be featured on "University Journal," a monthly program produced by the Western Kentucky University Television Center.

He will discuss U.S./Canada relations and the differences between the two countries during the program to air at 8:30 a.m. Monday on Kentucky Educational Television (KET).

Niles is a Kentucky native and holds a degree from the University of Kentucky.

(Staff Photo by Mark Workman)

Big Red says it all

NICK WHITE, (left) manager of Sam's Wholesale Warehouse on Scottsville Road, is slightly embarrassed by Big Red's enthusiasm at the store's grand opening on Monday night. D. IV. 11-23-86

CHRISTMAS COMMITTEE PLANS AID FOR THE NEEDY

William Hourigan, dean of health and safety at Western Kentucky University, will head the Salvation Army's Christmas Committee for the Bowling Green/Warren County area.

Groceries, clothing and toys will be provided to the needy of the area through this committee.

Anyone needing help this year should go to the office of the Salvation Army at 401 W. Main St. They are accepting applications from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday until Dec. 1.

D.N. 11-23-86

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

The Samuel Davies Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Nov. 7 at the Public Library with Mrs. J. Vernon Hardcastle presiding as regent.

Dr. James D. Bennett, professor of history at Western Kentucky University, spoke on "The Declaration of Independence."

Mrs. O.E. Schow reported on her work as chairman of Veterans-Patients Committee.

Mrs. E.F. Alford reported on the contest being held in the schools.

WOMEN'S ALLIANCE

The Women's Alliance of WKU met Oct. 28 in the Downing Executive Dining Room with 20 members and guests present.

Judy Owen, director of Career Planning and Placement at Western, presented an affirmative action update.

Plans were discussed for the GROW Conference to be held in 1989.

D.N. 11-23-86

ON CAMPUS

WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

Lunchtime Learning Program: "A Local Potpourri" is the theme for this fall's program at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday in the Kentucky Building on the campus in Bowling Green. The program is free and participants may bring lunch.

C.J. 11-23-86

Western will increase Owensboro offerings

OWENSBORO, Ky. — Western Kentucky University will expand its academic offerings in the Owensboro region to enable students to receive bachelor's and master's degrees as well as participate in several continuing education programs.

Western's mandate to provide upper division course work in Owensboro is supported by the Owensboro Citizens Committee which reported its community college study to Gov. Martha Layne Collins last year.

The 1986 General Assembly, in turn, allocated funds to build a community college in Owensboro.

"The need for low-cost, accessible lower division course work is paralleled by the need for more affordable upper division course work," said Western President Dr. Kern Alexander.

He said the upper division course work leading to bachelor's degree programs include nursing, accounting, marketing and elementary education.

Graduate degree programs will include elementary and secondary education, community/agency counseling and gerontology, organizational communication, business administration, public administration, and criminal justice (in cooperation with Eastern Kentucky University).

Other programs will be added as enrollment dictates, Alexander said.

Western has offered higher education in Owensboro for 25 years, a region included in the school's primary service area as charged by the state Council on Higher Education.

D.N. 11-21-86

Soviet diplomat speaker

Paul Pavlov, counsel to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C., will discuss Soviet-American relations at 8 tonight in Grise Hall Auditorium on Western Kentucky University's campus.

Pavlov is substituting for Vitaly Churkin, who was scheduled to speak but had to cancel. Churkin is first deputy of the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

The forum "Talking about Peace: A Conversation with a Soviet Leader" is sponsored by the Western chapter of United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War.

An open discussion will follow Pavlov's remarks. The public is invited to attend.

D.N. 11-20-86

ride: Members of WKU cycling club travel area roads

"Unofficially, we welcome anyone to ride with us," he said.

Around Bowling Green, the club travels about 35-40 routes, which are divided into hilly routes in such areas as Richlandville and Morganfield and the flatter routes of the three Springs and Smallhouse roads.

An early morning trip might be only 15 miles, while a trip on the weekend might be 30 miles, Moore said.

Then there are the individual trips, such as Louisville or Nashville, for which the preferred route is U.S. 31-W.

"It's not the safest road, but even Kentucky roads aren't known for being safe," Moore said. "There are no shoulders."

Moore said the trip to Louisville

will take about nine hours, including about an hour for breaks.

"You're pretty tired," Moore said of the conclusion of such a trip. "It's a case of getting into Louisville about 5 o'clock and looking around and saying, 'Where's the spaghetti?'"

Moore, a psychology major with a minor in folk studies, said drivers in the area are considerate of the cyclists. And club members in turn discuss proper riding procedures, such as signaling and staying to the right of the road, at their meetings.

The club, which is planning a fundraiser of Big Brothers-Big Sisters, meets at 8 p.m. on Sundays in Room 126 of the Downing University Center. Dues are $10 per year, which includes the cost of a club T-shirt.

ABOVE: PART OF the preparation for riding with Western's cycling club involves making sure the necessary equipment is in shape as Logan Leachman, a sophomore from Lake Tahoe, Calif., (left) does while Jon Thompson, a WKU senior looks on. BELOW: Thompson's equipment includes gloves, a helmet and goggles.

D-10 11-23-86

ABOVE: PART OF the preparation for riding with Western's cycling club involves making sure the necessary equipment is in shape as Logan Leachman, a sophomore from Lake Tahoe, Calif., (left) does while Jon Thompson, a WKU senior looks on. BELOW: Thompson's equipment includes gloves, a helmet and goggles.

D-11 11-23-86

Staff photos
by Kim Swift

LEFT: THE CYCLISTS from Western's cycling club race across the old bridge on Old Richardsville Road. ABOVE: Neil Brokman waits for others at a traffic light.

Daily News

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1986 Page 1-B

LEFT: THE CYCLISTS from Western's cycling club on the old bridge on Old Richardsville Road. ABOVE: Neil [unclear] for others at a traffic light.

Ticket to ride: Members of WKU cycling club travel

D.V. 11-23-86

When Fergus Moore goes for a bicycle ride, he doesn't limit it to a aunt to a friend's house or a trip to classes at Western Kentucky University.

The senior from Murray may instead pedal his way home or to Louisville for the weekend.

Moore is president of the cycling club at Western, a group of about 10 students, faculty members and alumni that often disdains the automobile when its members take to the road.

More and more people are becoming interested in cycling, said Moore, a co-founder of the club. And although the group's status as a Western club means the money it receives must go to those with Western connections, the club isn't going to run anybody off the road.

"Unofficially, we welcome anyone to ride with us," he said.

Around Bowling Green, the club travels about 35-40 routes, which are divided into hilly routes in such areas as Richlandville and Morgantown roads and the flatter routes of Three Springs and Smallhouse roads.

An early morning trip might be only 15 miles, while a trip on the weekend might be 30 miles, Moore said.

Then there are the individual trips, such as Louisville or Nashville, for which the preferred route is U.S. 31-W.

"It's not the safest road, but then Kentucky roads aren't known for being safe," Moore said.

"There are no shoulders."

Moore said the trip to Louisville

will take about nine hours, including about an hour for breaks.

"You're pretty tired," Moore said of the conclusion of such a trip. "It's a case of getting into Louisville about 5 o'clock and looking around and saying, 'Where's the spaghetti?'"

Moore, a psychology major with a minor in folk studies, said drivers in the area are considerate of the cyclists. And club members in turn discuss proper riding procedures, such as signaling and staying to the right of the road, at their meetings.

The club, which is planning a fundraiser of Big Brothers-Big Sisters, meets at 8 p.m. on Sundays in Room 126 of the Downing University Center. Dues are $10 per year, which includes the cost of a club T-shirt.

This Week at Western

SUNDAY

3 P.M. RECITAL. Steve Webber will hold a graduate recital in Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center's Recital Hall. The guitar recital is free and open to the public. For additional information call 745-3751.

MONDAY

6 P.M. THE WARREN COUNTY ADULT FARMERS MEETING will be held in the Agriculture Exposition Center. For additional information contact Joe Duncan at 843-5461 or call the Agriculture Exposition Center at 843-3542.

THE WKU JAZZ ENSEMBLE will perform in concert in Van Meter Auditorium. The performance is free and open to the public. For more information contact the band office at 745-5282.

TUESDAY

11:45 A.M. 'A LOCAL POT-POURRI' is the theme for this fall's lunchtime learning program coordinated by Dr. Carol Crowe-Carraco, professor of history. Frances D. Perdue and Helen B. Crocker will lead the final forum. For more information contact the Kentucky Building at 745-2592. The forum is free and participants are invited to bring their lunch.

8 P.M. RECITAL. Ruth Ellen Cooper will hold a junior recital in Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center's Recital Hall. The guitar recital is free and open to the public. For additional information call 745-3751.

FRIDAY

8 P.M. 'A MESSIAH SING-IN' will be jointly sponsored by the Bowling Green-Western Symphony

Orchestra and Citizens National Bank at the Capitol Arts Center. The Bowling Green-Western Symphony Orchestra will perform in concert and the audience will be invited to sing-a-long at the event. Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens and $1.50 for children under 12. For more information call 745-5921 or 745-3751.

The Bowling Green-Western Symphony

Symphony 'Messiah sing' Friday

D.N. 11-23-86

Bowling Green area residents will have a chance to hear—and participate in—George Frederick Handel's "The Messiah" at 8 p.m. Nov. 28 at the Capitol Arts Center.

The Bowling Green-Western Symphony will present a "Messiah Sing-in" as part of its 1986-87 season but this time, the audience can do more than enjoy the music, according to Martha Haynes, president of the symphony's board of directors.

"The audience will be able to participate. They'll be able to sing along with the symphony," Ms. Haynes said. "It'll be a chance to kick off the holiday season for both the audience and the symphony."

The "Sing-in" will follow the the Christmas tree lighting ceremony in Fountain Square Park, Ms.

Haynes said, and people of all ages are encouraged to attend.

"The 'Sing-in' is a chance for people of all ages to hear some wonderful music," she added. "Ticket prices for the concert are especially low so that whole families can attend."

Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens and $1.50 for children under 12.

Tickets are available the main office of Citizens National Bank of Bowling Green, which is underwriting the operating costs of the concert. All money raised through ticket sales will benefit the symphony.

"We're a shoestring operation," Ms. Hanes said. "The only way the symphony can continue is through donations organizations like community groups, Western Kentucky University and businesses such as Citizens."

Valerie Peterson, a marketing representative with CNB, said the bank agreed over a year ago to cover the cost of the "Sing-in" as one way of supporting the community.

"We have been involved with the symphony before and supporting them is a way to return the favor," she said. "This does take a lot of time and effort but the return to the community, the music and enjoyment, is more."

Director Gary Dilworth will direct the symphony and the program will feature several soloists who were chosen earlier in the month. The highlight of the evening will be the "Hallelujah Chorus."

It started out is a pig

and just got carried away'

11-25-86
By KIM SWIFT

Daily News Special Writer
"Ben" solemnly stares at those walking by his gallery and invites them to gaze at him and his companions.

"Ben" is among the sculptures by Bob Lockhart, a professor at Bellarmine University in Louisville, currently on exhibit at the Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Gallery at Western Kentucky University.

Nineteen of Lockhart's 'curious animal,' human and abstract figures sculpted from wood and stone will be exhibited until Dec. 19.

To open the exhibit, Lockhart visited Western and gave a slideshow of his work and a demonstration of his technique Nov. 18.

He showed some of the work he did about 20 years ago, such as painted clay portraits of the faculty members he worked with. Each figure was a life-size bust of each teacher wearing only an odd tie.

At the time Lockhart was working with clay and painting his sculptures, critics said his work was not fine art but rather craft art. Now, he said his technique is accepted as fine art. "But I couldn't go back to that if I wanted. I'm finished with that stage."

Now the 46-year-old sculptor is working once again with animal forms — a recurrent theme in his developing style.

Lately he has begun to work two animals usually thought of as enemies into his pieces.

One such piece — two snakes and a mongoose — is part of the current show.

"I've always been interested in what I'm going to do rather than the piece I just finished," he said.

But sometimes Lockhart said he isn't sure of what the outcome will be of a piece of stone or clay or wood.

"I let the stone just kind of go and have no idea beforehand," he said.

Showing a slide of a wooden multi-animal sculpture, Lockhart said "it started out as a pig and it just got carried away."

And if he doesn't like where a piece "got carried to," he said, "I chuck it."

Producing usually one piece a day, Lockhart said he has a need for immediacy.

After he finishes the basic sculpture, one of his apprentices will sand the piece while he goes on to something else.

"I think too many things," Lockhart explained, "and I don't want to miss any of them."

(Staff Photo by Kim Swift)

PROFESSOR AND SCULPTOR Bob Lockhart of Bellarmine University in Louisville demonstrated his techniques for students at Western Kentucky University recently. His pieces "evolve" from the material; he doesn't begin with a preconception of what will happen and is sometimes surprised, as in the case of the pig.

Screening committee for appointments as regents pondered

D.N.

11-25-86

From Daily News
and AP Reports

Western Kentucky University's president says creation of a committee to screen potential appointees to university governing boards is an idea worth exploring, but said it isn't a critical issue.

"It's an interesting proposal and one that should be discussed," Dr. Kern Alexander said. "But the present system has worked well. The governor, historically, has exercised his or her prerogative in a judicious way. I just don't see this as a critical issue regarding higher education in Kentucky."

Wade Mountz, chairman of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, which made the proposal, said Monday there should be a formal process and set of standards for appointments to university boards and the Council on Higher Education.

"Board members must be able to see the needs of the entire state in addition to the more narrow interests of one university," Mountz said during a morning news conference.

Mountz said the committee did not recommend setting specific qualifications for prospective board members because that could exclude otherwise competent individuals.

Joe Iracane, chairman of Western's Board of Regents, said the idea has merit because it may reduce the chances of abuse in the appointment process.

"In a few isolated cases there could be abuse, so in that regard the plan has merit," Iracane said. "But I would assume the screening already going on in the governor's office is done with a great deal of professionalism and ethics."

Gov. Martha Layne Collins reacted positively to the proposal.

"Regardless of the procedure used, the bottom line is to get the most qualified people to serve as trustees and regents," she said in a prepared statement. "Ultimately, how well a person serves as a trustee or regent depends upon the commitment of that person to do a good job."

The committee envisions a single group, similar to a judicial nominating panel, that could come up with a pool of individuals qualified for service on any board or the council, Mountz said.

"Frankly, the makeup of these boards across the state has been very good," Alexander said. "I certainly wouldn't want to say there isn't a better system, but this proposal isn't a major question right now."

Western regents Ronnie Clark and Joe Cook agreed, saying if the proposal becomes a reality it would just add another layer of bureaucracy in the system.

"I tend to think another level of committee creates a little more bureaucracy in the process," Cook said. "The governor does his or her own screening of the candidates anyway."

"And they've done a good job,"

Continued Back Page
Column 3, This Section

and Stocks

—TAXABLE—

Certificate of Deposit
FDIC/FTIC Insured

3-Year . . . . . 7.30 %
Semi-Annual Interest Check

5-Year . . . . . 7.85 %
Semi-Annual Interest Check

—TAX EXEMPT—

Coming Soon...

Western Kentucky
University Tax Free
Bond

University of Louisville . . . . . 7.00 %

—INCOME STOCKS— (price per share)

Exxon . . . . . $69 1/4

Kentucky Utilities
. . . . . $42

—GROWTH STOCKS— (price per share)

H. J. Heinz . . . . . $41 1/2

Liz Claiborne
. . . . . $44

Prices and Yields subject to market fluctuations and availability as of 11-25-86

For More Information
Call:

781-1691

State & Main Streets in Bowling Green, KY

586-7152

On the Square in Franklin, KY

Regents

D. N. 11-25-66

From
Page 1

he continued. "I don't think the governor should give away the responsibility or authority given to the office by the state Constitution, which charges the governor to appoint the boards of regents."

Clark, who said he doesn't agree with the concept, added there is a danger that the proposed committee could evolve into another Council on Higher Education.

"They would become the higher education council before it's all over," Clark said. "I just can't see that this would improve higher education. I don't see the necessity of it."

But Robert Warren, a Lexington businessman who is chairman of the Prichard Committee's subcommittee on higher education, said it is important that board members have a broad view of a university's role.

"Right now, board members tend to be parochial in their view," said Warren, who is a regent at Eastern Kentucky University.

Appointments to university boards have traditionally been cherished by governors as rewards for supporters.

Warren, who served as secretary of the Finance Cabinet under Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., said a more formal process for selecting appointees would be welcomed by governors.

For each appointee who gets one of the plums, dozens of other people are angered, Warren said.

"This is a way that a governor can handle a very difficult situation," Warren said. "On balance, it would be very helpful politically."

The suggestion has been passed on to all of the prospective gubernatorial candidates, Mountz said.

But Clark said the pressure would just be switched from the governor's office to the committee.

"How would this committee correct the criticism that while one gets the plum the rest go without," Clark asked. "The committee will have the same problem."

"Being governor is not an easy job," Cook added. "There are tough decisions to be made and there are difficult situations to be dealt with. That's why we go through the election process to choose that person who can make the tough decisions. We shouldn't be leaving those decisions up to another committee."

The recommendation comes as Mrs. Collins is pondering what to do with nearly three dozen appointments she could theoretically make to university boards.

That subject has been before Mrs. Collins for several months, since a Franklin Circuit Court ruling that six-year terms for board members are unconstitutional. At least 34 board members are now in their fifth or sixth year of service and could be replaced by Mrs. Collins if she chooses.

In some cases, such as at the University of Kentucky where the search for a new president is underway, a majority of the gubernatorial appointees are in that situation.

A separate state law allows members of any board or commission to serve indefinitely until replaced.

The Prichard Committee has opposed wholesale reshuffling of university boards, Mountz said, adding that the timing of Monday's recommendation had nothing to do with any other controversy.

Coming Attractions

WORKSHOPS

There will be a Crash Avoidance /Defensive Driving workshop by George Niva at 2:30 p.m.-4 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in room 401 of the Science and Technology Building at Western. For registration information, contact David Sloss at 745-5366.

CONCERTS

The department of music at Western Kentucky University presents Peter McHugh, violin, and Naomi Oliphant, piano, in a guest faculty recital at 8 p.m. Monday at the recital hall of Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center. Admission is free and the public is invited.

WKYU-FM/WDCL-FM will broadcast the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera production of "Romeo et Juliette" at 3 p.m. Dec. 6.

The O'Kanes will perform at 9:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Tuesday at Picasso's. Tickets are $3 at the door.

Western Kentucky University's department of music and the Bowling Green-Western Symphony Orchestra will present a Messiah Sing-In at 8 p.m. today at the Capitol Arts Center. Everyone is invited to participate. Admission is $5 for adults, $3 for students. For more information, contact the department of music at 745-3751.

PRODUCTIONS

"Bamboozled!" will be presented by Western's department of communication and theatre Dec. 5-Dec. 7. The production is part of the 1986 Children's Theatre Series. All performances will be in Theatre 100 of Gordon Wilson Hall at Western. Admission is 50 cents and showtimes are 4 p.m. Friday and at 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Hardin Planetarium at Western Kentucky University presents "The Star of Bethlehem" Dec. 1-Dec. 18. Shows will be at 7:30 p.m. every Tuesday and Thursday and at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Dec. 7 and Dec.

14. For more information, call 745-4044.

The departments of music, communication and theatre at Western Kentucky University present a Christmas Madrigal Feast at 7 p.m. Dec. 4-Dec. 7 in the Garret Conference Center Ballroom. Tickets for the buffet-style feast are $13.50. For more information contact WKU ticket office at 745-5222.

EXHIBITS

An exhibit of more than 60 Ivan Wilson paintings is on view at the Kentucky Museum. John Warren Oakes, associate professor of art at Western and a student of Wilson, will be the exhibit's guest curator. The museum, located Western's campus is open 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and 1 p.m.-4:30 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge.

The second exhibition in Kentucky Artists Series sponsored by the department of art at Western Kentucky University will feature works by Louisville sculptor Robert Lockhart and will run through Dec. 19.

A "Canadian Quilt Collection" is on display at the Kentucky Museum. The collection of 13 quilts and 2 pillowcovers will be on display through January.

On view in the Ervin G. Houchens Gallery at the Capitol Arts Center is "New Works XXI" by Kelly Shay. The show will end today.

On display at the Hobson House is a Victorian baby bed for twins, circa 1860. The bed is on loan from Mrs. William Howard Green and Kenneth C. Thomson Jr.

On view in the Upper Lobby at the Capitol Arts Center is a display of posters by Franklin Ross & Associates. The show ends today. Gallery hours are 8:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday.

Photographs of historic buildings in Bowling Green are on display at the Hobson House. The photographs are from the collection of Wallace Breedlove and include several churches, the Cherry and Turpin buildings, and the Simon Bolivar Buckner Memorial Bridge in Munfordville.

"A life in miniature," the latest Curator's Choice exhibit is on display at the Kentucky Museum. The show, which focuses on miniature furniture made and used between 1850 to 1920 through the holiday season.

This Week at Western

D.W.
11-30-86

MONDAY

NOON — THE SOUTHERN KENTUCKY HOG SHOW will be held in the Agriculture Exposition Center's Main Sales Arena and holding area until 10 p.m. For information call Dr. Gordon Jones or the Agriculture Exposition Center.

2:30 P.M. — 'A CRASH AVOIDANCE/DEFENSIVE DRIVING SEMINAR' will be presented by George Niva, associate professor of health and safety, in the Science and Technology Hall, room 401. For information contact David Sloss, wellness coordinator.

6:30 P.M. — A BOOKKEEPING AND BUDGETING SEMINAR will be held at the Bowling Green Chamber of Commerce, 812 State St. as a training session for small businesses. The seminar is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the SCORE Chapter and the Small Business Administration. For information, call the WKU's Small Business Development Center. If special auxiliary needs are needed please call the center and they will be available.

NAA open house for WKU students

The National Association of Accountants-South Central Kentucky chapter will sponsor an open house at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in room 353 Grise Hall at Western Kentucky University for all students interested in joining the NAA student chapter at Western.

Pledge results

WKYU-FM/WDCL-FM, Western Kentucky University's public radio service received more than $40,000 in pledges during its recent membership drive, according to station manager Dave Wilkinson.

That amount, raised between Nov. 3-Nov. 9, is an increase of more than 23 percent above the amount raised during last year's drive.

8 P.M. — GUEST RECITAL. The recital features Peter McHugh on violin and Naomi Oliphant on piano in the Ivan Wilson Center's Recital Hall. The concert is free and open to the public.

TUESDAY

7:30 P.M. — 'THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM' will be presented in Hardin Planetarium on Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is free to all programs and the public is invited. For more information call 745-4044.

THURSDAY

9:30 A.M. — AGRICULTURE MECHANIZATION CAREER DAY will be held until 2 p.m. in the Agriculture Exposition Center's double classroom. For information call Dr. Robert Schneider or the Agriculture Exposition Center.

5 P.M. — 'DRUG UPDATE 1985' will be the topic in Downing University Center's room 125 until 9:14 p.m. For information call Mona Moughton.

7 P.M. — SOUTHERN KENTUCKY HOG SHOW BANQUET will be held. For information call Dr. Gordon Jones.

7 P.M. — 'THE CHRISTMAS MADRIGAL FEAST,' sponsored by the department of music, communication and theatre and food services, will be presented in the Garrett Center Ballroom Dec. 4-7 at 7 p.m. Tickets are on sale for $13.50 and may be purchased in the Ticket Office in E.A. Diddle Arena.

FRIDAY

THE BROCK AND BRIDLE QUADRATHALON will be held all day Dec. 5 and 6 in the entire Agriculture Exposition Center. For information call Dr. Gordon Jones or the Agriculture Exposition Center.

11:45 A.M. — 'IMPRESSIONS OF RUSSIA: AN INTERNATIONAL FORUM' featuring speaker Dr. Sam McFarland, professor of psychology at WKU, will be presented in room 216 of the Cravens Graduate Center. For information call McFarland.

1 P.M. — MARY JOE DANTON of the University of Kentucky will be the guest speaker for the department of biology's next graduate seminar in Thompson Complex North Wing, room 224. For information call the biology department.

Funded

WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

"The Star of Bethlehem": Presented at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, and 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Hardin Planetarium on the campus in Bowling Green. Free. Christmas Madrigal Feast: Sponsored by WKU's departments of music, community theater and food services, in the Garrett Center Ballroom, 7 p.m. Thursday through next Sunday. Tickets are $13.50. Available at the E. A. Diddle Arena ticket office. 11 36 41

AWARE (Association With Aspirations for Real Equality) President Wanda Johnson gives the initial contribution of $1000 to fund a perpetual scholarship within the College Heights Association to Dr. Dero G. Downing. Howard Bailey, dean of student life at WKU, and Shirley Malone, scholarship committee chairman, join her in the presentation.

DW 11-3-86